"Out On His Feet"

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—Primo Carnera, whose blow brought the injury that caused the death of Ernie Schaaf, today made arrangements to go to the district attorney's office for questioning.

Several other officials at the bout in Madison Square Garden, which ended in Schaaf being knocked out in the 13th round also were asked to appear for questioning. They included Dr. William H. Walker, brother of the former mayor, and athletic commission physician, Frank Bagley, Jerry Buckley and Bill Duffy, of Carnera's board of managers, and Johnny Buckley, Schaaf's co-manager.

From his hotel room, where he was closeted with detectives prior to a visit to the district attorney, Carnera issued the following statement:

"I have been advised of the death of Ernie Schaaf. I was indeed surprised and greatly shocked. He was a very fine young man and a clean sportsman. I wish to extend my profound sympathy to his mother and the rest of the family."

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—Ernie Schaaf, 24-year-old heavy-weight boxer who fell under the bruising blows of the giant Primo Carnera
at Madison Square Garden Friday night while a great crowd cried
"fake!" died today from the beating he took.

Death, which came at 4:10 o'clock this morning, was due to intra cranial hemorrhage ascribed to the 13 rounds of punishment before he fell to the canvas.

Mother at Bedside

At midnight a priest was called to administer the last rites of the Catholic church. With him when he died was his mother, Mrs. Lucy Schaaf, and his manager and friend
Johnny Buckley.

Jimmy Johnston, matchmaker at Madison Square Garden, said, when told of Schaaf's death:

"It is the most terrible thing that ever happened in boxing."

Schaaf's death paralleled in many respects that of Frankie Jerome, bantamweight, in January, 1924. Jerome was knocked out in the 12th round of a Garden fight by Bud Taylor, Terre Haute boxer, and died
two days later after a similar operation.

Three hours were required for the operation on Schaaf. It was performed, a bulletin by the doctors said, "to relieve intro-cranial pressure."

The bulletin added:
"The patient stood the operation
well and afterwards moved his left arm, which had been paralyzed."

SCHOOLS WILL ASK REDUCTION IN LIGHT RATE

Conference Is Scheduled
With Ohio Edison
Here

A 25 per cent reduction in electric light and power rates for Salem public schools will be sought from the Ohio Edison company through action taken by members of the board of education at a meeting
Monday night.

Clyde R. Reich and James H.
Wilson were appointed to serve on a committee delegated by President P. P. Mullins to confer with T.
E. Miller, district manager of the Ohio Edison, on power rate reductions.

A change in the system now used to determine rates for public schools was advocated by Rev. B. E. Rutzky.

A report on the matter will be made by Wilson and Reich at the board's next meeting, scheduled Monday, March 6.

Improvement of playgrounds at the city's schools is planned during the summer months, the board authorizing Reich to order two carloads of slag to be dumped on school properties.

The improvements were undertaken at the suggestion of Rev.
Rutzky who said playgrounds were in a "deplorable condition."

Supt. Earl S. Kerr announced that, because of lack of funds, he will not attend the annual convention of school superintendents which will be held this year at Minneapolis, Minn.

Thompson Placed On Pension List

Thomas W. Thompson, former Salem police chief who retired last Wednesday, was placed on a pension of $106.25 monthly at a meeting of the Salem police pension board
Monday night.

Thompson resigned his post as chief after more than 25 consecutive years of service with the police department. He served 12 years as patrolman and 13 as chief.

The pension board approved his application for pension, which is based on five-eighths of his salary as police chief. Thompson's salary at the time of his retirement was $170 a month.

Had he postponed his resignation until the reductions of salaries as effected by city council last night, his pension would have been cut to $66.87.

Grand Jury Probes Fire At Apartment In Which 13 Died

CLEVELAND, Feb. 14.—The tragic Ellington apartment house fire in which thirteen persons died, was laid before the county grand jury today.

Four witnesses from Beaver, Pa., on whose stories authorities filed charges of murder in perpetration of arson against five men, were asked to tell their versions of an alleged plot to collect insurance by burning a barber shop supply company in the apartment building.

One of the four, Abe Redlich, called the "key witness" in the investigation, has disclaimed any part in the fire but has told authorities
he was familiar with the "arson plot." He said he was left out "because there was not enough money in it." Redlich now is serving a sentence in connection with an incendiary fire at Ambridge, Pa.

Ray I. Turk, owner of the Barber Supply company, County Prosecutor Frank T. Culligan has charged, hired an arson gang to set fire to his place so he might collect $15,000 insurance. He with Louis J. Kamons, now serving a term in a Pennsylvania prison for the Ambridge arson case, Paul Childs and Samuel Neaman of Pittsburgh, and Benjamin Hirsch of Aliquippa, Pa., are the five charged with murder. All but Hirsch have been arrested.

manuel Lutheran, Holy Trinity

Honolulu Assault Case Is Finished

HONOLULU, Feb. 14.—The Ala
Moana assault case in which five men of mixed blood were accused of criminally attacking Mrs. Thalia Massie, wife of a naval lieutenant,

At the request of the prosecution,
Circuit Judge Charles Davis yesterday ordered the discharge of the four living defendants in noting a nolle prosequi, or discontinuance, in the case. The defendants freed are Ben Ahakuelo, Henry Chang, Horace Ida and David Takai.

The action also cleared in the prosecution's eye the name of a fifth defendant, Joseph Kahahawai, who was kidnapped by Mrs. Massie's mother, Mrs. Granville Fortesque;
her husband, Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, and two enlisted men, shot to death by Lieutenant Massie in Mrs. Fortesque's home.

cal tournament.

The youth left the ring in the second round after the referee had down blows by Zuzak's opponent,

Finance Structure

(By Associated Press)

DETROIT, Feb. 14.—With dramatic suddenness, Governor William claimed an eight day banking holiday in Michigan at the con-

The extraordinary holiday, un-

Governor Comstock's proclamation said the holiday was proclaimed "in view of the acute financial emergency now existing in the city of Detroit, and through-

Governor Comstock explained that he was summoned to Detroit

SCHOOL BOARD ADOPTS BUDGET

Figures Approved at Session with County Budget Committee

With the maximum income from general taxation and other sources estimated at $208,657.77, the 1933
budget of the Salem public school district, including Salem and all of Perry township, was approved by members of the board of education at their meeting at the high school building Monday night.

The budget was submitted to school board members by the county budget commission composed of Treasurer John C. Lilly, Auditor
John H. Irwin and Prosecutor
George L. Laflerty, effecting a decrease of more than $8,000 from appropriations asked by the board in its financial resolution passed in December.

Cut Library Fund

The commission slashed a budget request filed by the board for the support of the Salem public library from $11,000 to $5,477, a cut, in all probability, which may force the institution to continue its curtailed, half-time schedule for the remainder of the current year.

While the county group increased the schools' general fund from $167,420 to $184,105, a jump of slightly less than $17,000, a marked decrease was made in the appropriation of money for bond retirement. Estimates of financial needs for this latter fund, which opened the year with a deficit of $8,947.23, were chopped by the commission from $38,262.23 to $25,425.

Real estate valuation of the school district was increased slight-

2 Bandits Killed In Safe Explosion

LIMA, Feb. 14.—Nitroglycerine supposedly hidden by a gang of robbers and safe crackers today was blamed by police for the explosion that killed two men Sunday, one a thrice-convicted post office robber.

Police Chief J. W. Cook said he was convinced the men, identified as Tom White, 52, of Toledo, and Ted (Deafy) Hollar of Lima, were killed when the explosive blew up as they attempted to move it.

He ordered Toledo police to release Henry Sudekatus, 23, and Mrs.
Anna Daine, who were detained there at his request for questioning.
Cook said he was convinced they knew nothing of the blast, although White had driven to Hollar's place in Mrs. Daine's automobile in which police said, they found a drill and some soap.

SYNOPSIS

Shortly after her mother's death, Mary Kennedy, young and pretty stenographer, decides to live her own life and avoid the poverty she has always known. She rents a small room and then seeks a position. Mary meets Buck Landers, elderly sports promoter, who proposes to her. She does not love Landers, but his wealth attracts her.

Without waiting for Mary's decision Landers presents her with a diamond ring. He threatens anyone who comes between them.

Mary meets Landers' ward, Steve Moore, young college graduate.

Steve and Mary are attracted to one another. Landers leaves on a business trip and asks Steve to look after Mary.

CHAPTER X

Her meeting with Steve Moore had the effect of sending Mary's spirits soaring. A bright golden thread ran through the monotony of her office toil the balance of the day. He was never completely out of her mind, he amused her; he banished all worry. Buck Landers grew fainter in her consciousness. At her work she found herself humming under her voice.

At the same time, curiously, all of the kinks and tangles of her past discontent were blotted out; he was more patient, more sympathetic with the stupidity of the family relationship she had left behind in Brooklyn. They had no power to imprison her within the drab circle of their own lives. She wanted to be as nice as possible to her sister. Next week, perhaps, she would buy her a small present, a new little dress. Gradually Mary began to feel a surprising sense of confidence and security—and all the while Steve Moore was in the back of her mind. He did what Buck Landers had never been able to do, he made her feel—superior. She left the office early and went home to dress in her very best frock. She was satisfied with her appearance, the orchid color of her dress, the way it was made, suited her exactly, and her feminine instinct told her she would be at her best. While she made herself ready she debated about wearing Landers' diamond ring; at last she hid it in a dresser drawer.

A bell in the hall two flights below sounded and Mary went down the stairs gaily to meet Steve Moore. He was standing in the vestibule with his hat off and the ever-present humorous quirk on his lips. They got a taxi and Steve gave the address of a restaurant.

"They told me at the hotel that this is a pretty good place where we're going," he explained. "I'm expecting you to show me the ropes, though, because I'm a stranger in your big town."

It didn't matter particularly to Mary where they went, since all of her senses were invaded with pleasantness. She was glad, though, that they were not going to some oppressively stuffy place like the Plaza or the Belmont. Even the Mortenstoffs, where Buck Landers had taken her, was too mature and expensive for a boy like Steve—those places were far too elaborate for moderate youth. A little streak of affectionate common sense gave Mary a protective feeling toward Steve; of course, had he been rich it would be different, but he wasn't rich—yet.

But no sooner had Steve given the address of Aladdin's Lamp to the driver than she realized they were going to exactly the right place. True, she had never been there herself, but she had heard of its agreeable atmosphere, its touch of theatrical smartness and the excellence of its table-d'hôte dinners and celebrated international hors d'oeuvres. It was downtown and, by some miracle, not prohibitive in cost.

As they drove it seemed to Mary that Steve was the easiest person on earth to be with; she was under no strain whatever. Sometimes he said silly things that were not especially witty, yet he had a trick of mind that saw life through different eyes. By the time they reached the restaurant, he had her laughing at everything he said.

In the low, softly lighted dining room he continued to blossom; he took charge of the dinner with easy assurance. He was adamant with the head waiter and procured the best table in the place. He ordered with surety, started with hors d'oeuvres and, with a quick, shrewd glance at the waiter, breathed "two Manhattans."

The waiter hesitated a moment, and then slowly dropping an eyelid, said in a low tone, "Very good, sir."

They sat opposite each other at the small table and were bathed immediately in the melodious throbbing of the strident band, which contrived to keep its jazz subdued, yet effective. They drank their cocktails and observed the dancing in the center of the floor. "Shall we demonstrate?" Steve inquired, and Mary rose, quickly willing.

Steve passed his arm around her and they moved off smoothly with the music. The muted vibrations joined them bodily in perfect, effortless rhythm of movement. Immediately each knew they could dance together interminably without boredom.

Just by the act of dancing Mary seemed to know Steve better. It made her happy—she felt infinitely lithe and supple; his arm around her was strong and sustaining; there was a vigorous clean warmth from his muscular being.

"You're the best dancer on earth, Mary," he said, as she yielded herself pliantly to his movement among the other dancers.

"I'd rather dance with you than anybody I ever met in my life."

"You're not exactly wooden-legged yourself," she replied.

"Does Buck do much dancing?" he asked suddenly.

A tightness came swiftly into Mary's body and her dancing, all at once, was cramped and un-rhythmic.

"I don't think so," she said in a low voice.

There was something regretful in Steve's tone; "I don't suppose I'll see much of you after you're married. You'll be touring Europe, and doing things like that. If I dance at all it'll be with girls that get their toes under my feet, can't em."

"I'm not married yet," she told him softly.

"I'm not going to think about it at all," he declared, involuntarily squeezing her hand.

The music ended and they went back to their table. Their dinner began and, as it progressed, a slight melancholy developed. Steve seemed to lose something of his buoyancy and Mary knew why. They were both thinking of Buck Landers.

"I'll have to tell Steve the whole truth about it," she thought to herself. "I wonder if he thinks I really love Mr. Landers? Well, I don't. If he had billions of dollars, I couldn't have as much fun with him as I could have with Steve without a penny. But I don't mean anything to Steve—I'm just another girl. But he's nice, though, and I'm going to enjoy him while I can."

Actually she said aloud: "Are you engaged to be married?"

He looked at her steadily for a moment and then with an odd expression in his eyes he smiled, but not happily.

"Does it matter?"

She felt a little pang of regret, a tiny stab of something like jealousy. "Well, aren't you?"

"Let's don't talk about other people and engagements tonight," he said with a shrug, as he lit a cigarette. "I'm sorry I mentioned your engagement to Buck. It makes me sort of lonesome. Don't you feel sorry for me?"

"Yes, I do. But I don't see why."

"Say—we didn't come here to gloom!" he declared vigorously. "The girl I'm crazy about doesn't even know it. She's perfectly happy and I'm not going to bother her with my foolishness. I'm not even going to think about myself—I'm sorry I mentioned it. Shall we have another cocktail?"

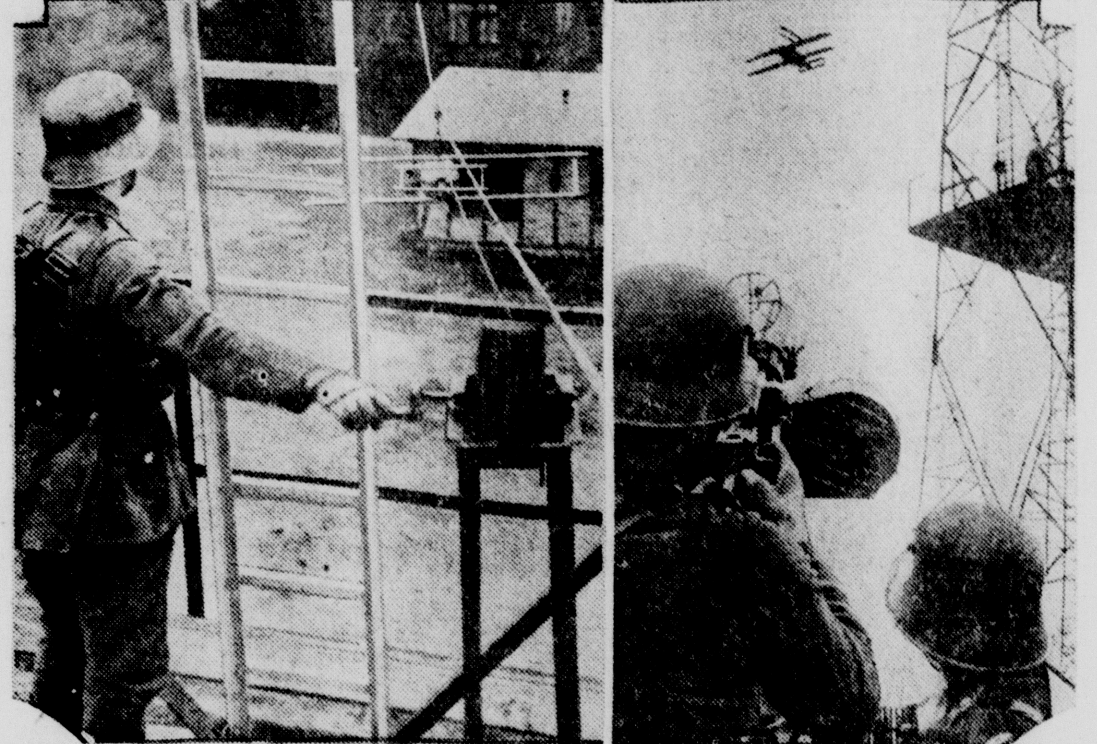

"I don't think so," Mary said softly. A suspicion—almost a hope—was entering her heart like a golden arrow. Was it possible that she herself was the girl he meant? Of course it was silly to think so, yet—

"I don't want another cocktail," she said, "but I'd like another dance."

They gazed at each other with widening eyes, and almost in a daze they rose from the table and were immediately lost in the dancing throng. His arm around her was stronger than ever.

Anti-Aircraft Practice With Paper Planes

Because the Versailles Treaty, by prohibiting the use of fighting airplanes in Germany, makes it impossible for the German army to engage in anti-aircraft gunnery practice with real planes, the ingenious Teutons have devised this method of keeping their hands in. At left a soldier is shown governing the movements of a cardboard plane, which is maneuvered on a wire between two pylons to provide a target for the anti-aircraft gunners, who are shown (right) firing at a proportionately scaled model.

THEATER Attractions

"A BILL OF DIVORCEMENT" a drama that won great fame as a stage success, has at last been adapted for the screen and will play at the State theater today and Wednesday. A story that has received acclaiming audiences all over England and America and a cast that is above criticism—John Barrymore, and the new sensation—Katharine Hepburn, as well as that lovely actress of silent screen days—Billie Burke, Paul Cavanaugh, David Manners, Henry Stephenson.

Excellent Plot
The story is one of suspense, sympathy, pathos and love. It tells of a family of three—a man, the husband, who soon after the war had been incarcerated in an insane asylum—a lovely wife who after 17 long years of waiting for the inevitable return has finally consented to the pleas of Gray Meredith who loves her deeply—a daughter, young, engaged to be married, happy in her own love and for that of her mother—then the sudden return of the husband—semi-insane.

Pathetically happy to be home again, to be near his beloved "Meg" and his daughter, the husband, Hilary (Barrymore) is full of plans for picking up the broken threads of his married life. It is with great difficulty "Meg" tells him she has divorced him and is about to marry Gray. Hilary pleads with her, he tells her how long he "has been a dead man" and now that life is just beginning, she is taking it from him. "Meg" agrees not to marry Gray and to dedicate the rest of her life to making him happy.

Plight of the Daughter
Meanwhile, Sidney, the daughter, hears that the insanity is not due to a war shock as she thought but to heredity. Heartbroken she tells her fiancée (Manners)..... The climax to this drama is a powerful one—you'll remember it just as you will remember this great cast. It is most difficult to pick the star—Barrymore is magnificent.

ILLUSION:
The stage is all set for target practice. The magician lifts his bow and aims an arrow at the bull's-eye. His lovely assistant then steps in front of the target and he shoots the arrow—apparently through her—and it fixes itself in the very center of the bull's-eye! And she smiles through it all while the audience gasps.

EXPLANATION:
The arrow which the marksman "shoots through" his assistant simply folds up into the crossbow! The arrow which is actually embedded in the target is shot by the girl herself from a belt concealed under her dress. She releases a little spring, the arrow unfolds, and shoots straight into the bull's-eye! It is all done in a flash! So quickly the eye cannot detect the girl's movements! To heighten the impression that the arrow has gone right through, the girl releases a ribbon from the front of her dress—the continuation, apparently, of the ribbon attached to the arrow in the target.

KEPT FRESH IN THE WELDED HUMIDOR PACK

Copyright, 1933, R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company

Like to see through tricks? Then let's look at another... the illusion in cigarette advertising called "Cigarettes and Your Throat."

The audience is told that by certain magic processes tobacco can be made as soothing as cough medicine.

EXPLANATION: The easiest cigarette on your throat is the cigarette that is made from the choicest ripe tobaccos. Cheap, raw tobaccos are, as you would naturally expect, harsh in their effects upon the throat.

If you have to consider your throat, the quality of the tobacco in your cigarette is important.

It is a fact, well known by leaf tobacco experts, that Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand.

Camels are as non-irritating as a cigarette can be because Camels use choice, ripe, tobaccos.

And because of the matchless blending of these costlier tobaccos Camels have a rich bouquet and aroma... a cool, delicious flavor.

Keep the air-tight, welded Humidor Pack on your Camels... to assure yourself and your companions a fresh, cool smoke.

THE HOME KITCHEN

By Jeanette Young Norton

Simple Dishes Made From

Recipes of a Famous Chef

The dishes contributed by hotel chefs have evidently been tried out and found favor with many.

A Real Lamb Stew

Here is just about the best lamb stew ever:

Bone and cut off all the sinew and fat from a shoulder of lamb. Divide it into two-inch pieces and fry in good fat. When the meat is a golden color, drain off all the fat and moisten with one quart of brown sauce and a quart of stock. If you haven't this, sprinkle a little flour over the meat, shake it up and moisten with two quarts of water. Add a bunch of parsley garnished with thyme, bay leaf, garlic.

salt and pepper. Boil skim, then simmer. After it has been cooking for three-quarters of an hour, put in several small onions fried in butter, and an equal number of potato balls, a half pint of tomato puree and a pound of small cooked mushroom heads. It takes about an hour and a half to cook this stew perfectly. When cooked, remove the bunch of parsley, swim off the fat from the stew, place it in the center of a dish, surround with vegetables and mushrooms and pour the strained sauce over all.

New Dish

Here is something new, a simple, delicious dish. It is calf's brains with black butter. Soak some calf's brains in cold water for two hours, remove the skin enveloping them and lay in a saucepan to cook. Cover with water, add a dash of vinegar, some sliced carrots and onions, a bunch of parsley garnished with thyme and bay leaf, a clove, whole and whole peppers. Cook without boiling, letting them barely simmer for half an hour. When done drain and dress them in the center of a very hot dish, strewn over with chopped parsley, salt, pepper and a few capers. Baste with black butter, this being obtained by combining olive oil with butter until the mixture is dark. Put a dash of vinegar in the pan and pour over the brains with the butter.

Outlines Program

CLEVELAND, Feb. 14.—Although repairs are needed at all state welfare institutions, penal and hospital, when money becomes available for improvements it will go to the Cleveland state hospital, Athens state hospital and the hospital for feeble-minded at Apple Creek. Banks Through State of Michigan To Rest Until Feb. 23 ter long conference of those present that the difficulties might be ironed out provided time could be had for negotiations.

"As matters stood," the governor's statement said "it would have been necessary to close the doors of the institution involved on the morning of February 14, which would likely bring in its train disaster to many other of our banking institutions in Michigan."

Protect Smaller Depositors
"The crisis was caused by the inability to realize immediately upon the assets of the institution to meet threatened withdrawals. For the protection of smaller depositors in our institutions and to prevent the withdrawal of large sums from the state of Michigan it was deemed wise to declare a banking holiday for a period sufficiently long to allow the situation to be cleared up."

A supplemental statement, from Arthur A. Ballantine, under secretary of treasury, said that he believed Governor Comstock "acted very wisely."

The proclamation was issued in response to a formal request signed by John C. Hicks, president of the Michigan Bankers' association, and Robert O. Lord, president of the Detroit Clearing House association. Chapin At Conference Also participating in the conference ence from which emerged the proclamation was Roy D. Chapin, secretary of commerce, whose home is here.

Chapin, who said he came to Detroit Saturday to "cooperate with the bankers here," concurred in approving the extraordinary measures and expressed the belief the holiday would provide time to "stabilize the entire banking situation."

By the terms of the proclamation, "all banks, trust companies, and other financial institutions conducting a banking or trust business within the state of Michigan shall not be open for the transaction of banking or trust business." But it is also "provided that it shall not affect the making or execution of agreements or instruments in writing or of interfere with judicial procedure."

The Union Guardian Trust company is of primary importance in Michigan's financial scheme. With it are affiliated numerous other banks scattered over most of Michigan's lower peninsula.

Ernie Schaaf, Boxer, Is Dead

Boston Heavyweight Under Knife In Hospital For Three Hours

At midnight Johnny Buckley was told that all hope of saving the former saller had been abandoned.

Dr. Byron Stookey, brain specialist who was in charge of the operation, said that Schaaf "must have been knocked out on his feet," and that there was no doubt that the injury had been suffered in the Carnera fight.

Throughout the 13 rounds between the 207-pound Boston fighter and the 250-pound Italian the crowd of 20,000 fight fans who jammed the Garden to capacity Friday night shouted repeatedly for "action" and raised the constant cry of "fake".

Spectators were struck with the fact that during most of the fight Schaaf offered only a desultory defense to the lumbering attack of the huge Carnera. At times he walked into Carnera's swinging gloves with his arms almost at his side.

By the 13th round Schaaf was in distress and plainly showed it. Carnera lumbered into him with renewed energy. He shot a left jab to Schaaf's head, and the Boston man dropped.

The cries of "fake" echoed through the Garden. It did not seem that a jab as lightly landed as that could have caused a knockout. The crowd did not know what is known today that Schaaf was "out on his feet," and that any blow, or as one doctor later put it, "no blow at all," might have caused his final collapse under the ten times sweep of the referee's count.

Sharkey Helps Schaaf

Jack Sharkey, heavyweight champion of the world, was in Schaaf's corner, and rushed into the ring to help drag the fighter back to his stool. The cries of the crowd continued, ebbing only when Schaaf fell unconscious, was carried from the ring.

Sharkey was part owner with Johnny Buckley of Schaaf's contract. The fight between Carnera and Schaaf was originally made with the intention of having the winner meet Sharkey later this year for the heavyweight championship.

After the fight it became known that Schaaf, only a fortnight ago, had recovered from an illness of influenza, and this was advanced by his supporters as accounting for his unfavorable showing.

OHIO STATE CONTINUES TITLE DRIVE WITH WIN OVER ILLINOIS

BUCKEYES ANNEX CLOSE DECISION IN FAST BATTLE

Win Out In Overtime Period; Fouls Main Factors In Triumph

PURDUE TRIMS CHI TO GAIN IN LOOP

Iowa Upsets Wisconsin In Another Fray; Hosket Held to 1 Fielder

BY WILLIAM WEEKS, Associated Press Sports Writer
CHICAGO, Feb. 14.—Along with heading the Western conference basketball parade, Ohio State today had a dandy start toward a record for close decisions.

Able to win without great difficulty at home, the Buckeyes have found the battles on foreign floors exceedingly trying. Last night they scored their sixth triumph in a row to retain the lead in the championship race, but they had to go overtime to conquer Illinois, 31 to 29, and were outscored in field goals.

During their raid through the northwest end of the league a week ago, the close-call boys from Columbus escaped with one-point victories over Minnesota and Wisconsin.

Purdue Beats Chicago
Last night's set of five games produced only one alteration in the standing. By halloping Chicago, 41 to 21, Purdue jumped over Illinois and Wisconsin into fifth place. The defeat was Chicago's seventh straight and left the hapless Maroons still tied with Minnesota in last place.

The Gophers gave Northwestern a tussle for twenty minutes, but could not stand the pace and the Wildcats went on to win, 14 to 25, and hung on second place. Michigan got by a tough obstacle to preserve its hold on third position, defeating Indiana 32 to 25 at Bloomington.

Hosket Held
Iowa, the remaining member of the first flight, evened up with Wisconsin, by winning 31 to 25.

Illinois bottled up Bill Hosket in good shape, holding him to single field goal, but the guarding was so vigorous that Ohio State had to cash in on enough free throws to win. All the points in the overtime, three for the Buckeyes, and one for the Illini, were scored from the penalty stripe.

Another five game bill will be worked over Saturday night. Ohio State will meet Purdue at Columbus, Northwestern will entertain Chicago, Iowa and Michigan will play their critical battle at Ann Arbor, Indiana plays at Wisconsin, and Illinois meets Minnesota at Minneapolis.

"Find" of "Fastest Human"

No less an authority than Charley Paddock, erstwhile "fastest human," has hailed Al Fitch, of Pasadena (above), as one of the country's greatest prospects for the 100-yards dash. Paddock's enthusiasm is shared by such experts as Dean Cromwell and Dink Templeton. Fitch, who is enrolled at the University of Southern California, was recently clocked at 9.6 seconds for the 100 yards.

Changes in Football Rules Favored by College Coaches

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—With few exceptions, coaches and officials have given unqualified approval to the two changes the football rules committee has made in the playing code for 1933.

Comment was centered mostly on the new sideline zone rule, providing automatically for the ball to be brought in ten yards whenever it goes outside or is downed within the sideline zone.

Captain Lawrence M. Biffi Jones of Louisiana State was about the only objector. He thought the new rule would "lower the value of strategy and kicking accuracy."

Its benefits on the other hand, were described by both H. C. (Curly) Boyd of the University of Maryland and Wallace Wade of Duke.

"It will open up play along the side lines," said Byrd, "stop pulling and tugging to push the ball carrier outside, and will make side-line play safer, besides giving the quarterback better opportunity to display his field generalship."

Wade thought it would help in three ways, since it makes possession of the ball more valuable in that it provides better opportunity for a march down field; strengthens the defense by improving punting since it virtually eliminates the danger of clipping kicks out of bounds, and simplifies generalship by removing the quarterback's problem of keeping the play away from the sidelines.

Others pointed out that it would speed up the game, making it unnecessary for a team to waste a down every time it was bottled up against the sideline.

The new clipping rule also drew praise, especially that provision which reduced the penalty from 25 to 15 yards. Coaches expect the rule to be much more strictly enforced with the lesser penalty.

Veteran Diamonders Honored
Honored by the Baseball Writers' Association in recognition for their value to the national sport, Herb Pennock, veteran of 20 years with the New York Yankees, and John McGraw, former manager of the New York Giants, who is regarded as having made the greatest individual contribution to the game, are shown as they were presented with plaques at a recent dinner of the Association in New York. Left to right in the group are: Bill Slocum, secretary of the baseball writers' organization; Herb Pennock, John McGraw and Daniel Daniel, head of the association. McGraw journeyed from Havana, Cuba, to receive the trophy.

COACH SUSPENDS PARMA PLAYERS

Five Members of Squad Expelled As Result of "Wild Parties"

(By Associated Press)
CLEVELAND, Feb. 14.—Five members of the Parma High school cage team have been suspended as the result of "wild parties" which the players attended after recent basketball games and made no secret about.

The explanation was offered today by Coach Wade Stoffer, a member of the athletic board which suspended the players for "serious infraction of training rules." The Parma board of education has called a special executive session at which it will consider a detailed report of the suspensions.

Frank S. Shields, principal, refused to divulge the names of the players but at the Rocky River game last Friday, two days after the suspensions, the players not in uniform were Al Heuser, the team's high scorer; John Paulovici, George Reese, Art Davis and Fred Zumpt. Two of these, including Heuser, are under consideration for reinstatement.

Hole in One?

It looks very much as if the ping-pong ball is headed straight for the mouth of Miss Gloria Shay to make a hole in one, a unique score in ping-pong. But Miss Shay just managed to intercept the sphere with her paddle in time for a fine return. She is one of the younger generation of movie actresses.

Tilden Advocates Tennis Matches to Aid Jobless

BY COPELAND C. BURG
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—Charity also makes strange bedfellows.
It may even bring together again that great thespian of the tennis courts and the United States lawn tennis association, which, in the words of a rubberband, is quite a cohesion.

The actor we are speaking of is Big Bill Tilden, who has just finished some benefit tennis exhibitions for the Unemployed relief so that a big series of matches may be called for charity (that is, in part) between amateurs and professionals.

He thinks it would be a great thing to have the leading stars of the simon-pure world and the paid gents meet in games staged in all parts of the country.

Will Help Unemployed
"It would help the vast army of unemployed," thunders Big Bill, with all the fervor of a medicine doctor trying to shell snake oil in the hinterlands.
"Surely no one is going to let former tennis champions go hungry."

At that, the sacred United States Lawn Tennis Association, which audits expense accounts with a fine-tooth comb, may have a change of heart when going over its own ledgers this season.

The matches suggested by Tilden would certainly draw at least fairly well and beyond a doubt would guarantee some profit, which is more than is actually known about some of this year's purely amateur events.

Uncover New Material
Then too, Tilden says the matches might uncover some Davis cup material, or as he phrases it, would "hasten return" of the tennis holy grail, which has been in France so long if it were referred to as a plain cup it probably wouldn't give a civil answer.

However, we can't just see how any new talent is going to come out of the proposed clashes, as only the known amateur stars will play. A better argument for Tilden is that in his recent European tour ten rations charged admission to matches between amateurs and pros.

A 1934 Cleveland season is assured, however, the association announced.

Quakers '5' Will Seek Revenge In League Battle With Aviators

Alliance High's potential district championship quintet, seeking its second consecutive Big Ten league crown, will invade the home court of Salem High varsity hardwood performers in an important sectional clash Friday night.

The Stonemen will be aiming for revenge for that humiliating 37-12 setback handed them at Alliance on January 12 while the Aviators, in first place in the N. E. O. circuit, will be seeking to more firmly entrench themselves as the championship team of 1933.

The contest is among several crucial and interesting cage frays booked in the district this week.

Alliance Favored
Alliance will come here the heavy favorite to again upset Floyd Stone's performers for the team is again ranked among the best in the state. The Aviators have bowed in defeat four times, three setbacks resulting by one-point margins, but nevertheless have been tried and proven as a real power while the Quakers are still more or less an uncertainty quantity.

It's the only game booked for the Stonemen who have but two more games on the regular 1933 schedule. Both other contests will also be played here, on February 24 against Struthers and on Feb. 25 with Niles.

Minerva Tops League
While Alliance continues to rule over the Northeastern Ohio Big Ten circuit Minerva still has undisputed possession of first place in the sectional Tri-County league with East Palestine ranking second.

This week Minerva, undefeated in six battles, is looking to its ancient rival, Louisville high to clear its path for the basketball title.

Meeting Boardman and East Palestine, both of whom have designs on the title, Louisville can settle the race this week with victories over both of them. Both teams are tied for second place with five victories in six starts.

Boardman will invade Louisville Friday night while East Palestine will entertain the Stark county five on the following night. Both Boardman and East Palestine are scheduled to play two league contests this week.

Palestine at Lisbon
In invading Lisbon Friday night East Palestine will rule as the favorite while Boardman playing host to Columbiana Saturday night appears a cinch to register its second victory of the campaign over the invaders.

However if either or both Boardman and East Palestine come through this week's clashes unscathed the title will not be settled until the last week of the season. This would bring Boardman to Minerva Friday, February 24 for a crucial battle. On the following night, East Palestine will entertain Sebring to ring down the curtain on the league campaign.

Sebring vs Columbiana
One other league tilt is listed for this week. Sebring eliminated from the title chase by Boardman last week will trek to Columbiana Friday night.

Minerva and Leetonia are scheduled to play non-league contests this week. Minerva playing twice this week hopes to extend her winning streak which has now reached 10 games. Invading Waynesburg Friday night, Minerva will meet a team which is leading the Stark County Class B league. On Saturday night, Minerva will clash with its Alumni.

Leetonia still seeking a victory after 10 successive defeats will take on another strong five of the Stark County Class B loop. She will invade Hartsville Friday night.

Taking the Chase Out of Purchase

ADVERTISING benefits the man who buys as well as the man who sells. It is part of the Golden Rule of Business and it works both ways.

Don't miss the advertisements in this newspaper. Many of them are interesting just because of their news and educational value alone.

But more than that: Advertisements take the chase out of purchase and make every penny do its full duty.

This last statement is one particularly to be remembered when common-sense economy is not only a national duty, but an individual necessity.

Recommends Return To Gold Standard As Aid To Whole World

the road leading to the early re-establishment of the gold standard, then and then only can the abnormal barriers to trade, the quotas, the preferences, the discriminatory agreements and tariffs which exceed the differences in costs of production between nations be removed, uniform trade privileges among all nations be re-established and the threat of economic war averted.

On the international debts, he said: "If we are asked for sacrifices because of incapacity to pay, we should have tangible compensation in restoration of our proportion of their (foreign nations') agricultural and other imports."

The President said the nation was at the "fork of three roads." The first, which he indicated he preferred, is the highway of international cooperation, removing the obstructions to world consumption and higher prices.

The second, which he indicated may be necessary if the first road is closed, is to rely "on our high degree of national self-containment, to increase our tariffs, to create quotas and discriminations and to engage in definite methods" of curtailment of production.

He said "the third road is that we inflate our currency, consequently abandon the gold standard, and with our depreciated currency attempt to enter a world economic war, with the certainty that it leads to complete destruction, both at home and abroad."

Once he declared that the Republican party "will be recalled to power."

At another point he departed from his prepared address to declare that re-establishment of the gold standard among important nations "is the solution of our farmers' difficulty."
